National symbols (a flag, an anthem and an emblem) represent states, nations, and countries in the world. They are created as visual, verbal, or iconic representations of a nation's people, values, goals, and history. They are closely related to national identity which comes from a number of things: history, daily life, the land, a moral code, an artistic code and the climate. It is how we eat, how we work, how we spend our free time. It is the way we wear clothes. National identity can be found in traditional clothes. Our songs and the distinct movement of our dances also help define us.

People themselves may also become the symbols of Europe. These may include kings, politicians, religious leaders, charismatic personalities, scientists, artist, philosophers and inventors. Authorsof Quizzes: Halina Bednarz, MaBgorzata Al-Khatib and Joanna Mika-Hadelka /Poland
